NEWS AROUND TOWN

By Mrs. Calvin Robinson

I liked this one:

A 4-year-old girl was visiting her grandparents. When put to bed she sobbed, said she was afraid of the dark and wanted to go home.

"But you don't have a light at home, darling, do you?" said her granny.

"No," she replied, "but there it's my own dark." -Tid-Bits, London.

The Woman's Club of Appomattox will meet Monday, February 4, at the Elementary School at 3:00 o'clock.

Miss Mary Graves, who has been a patient at the Guggenheimer Memorial Hospital, Lynchburg, is now a patient at The Virginia Home For Incurables, 1101 Hampton St., Richmond, Va. Let's take time out and send Miss Graves a card occasionally. I am sure she would enjoy hearing from her friends in Appomattox.

The new brick home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Guill, on Virginia Ave., is nearing completion, and they expect to move soon.

The new brick home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Gawthorne, on Lucy St., has been completed, and they plan to move soon.

Miss Emma Smith has been confined to her home for several weeks with an injured knee she received from a recent fall. We wish her a speedy recovery, and hope she will be out soon.

Mrs. W. R. Reynolds and daughter, Mrs. Hazel Mann, motored to Roanoke Sunday to attend the Virginia - Carolina Retail Merchants Showing of spring merchandise. They were joined there by Mrs. Reynolds' son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harry N. Hunt, of Raleigh, N. C.

Miss Ann Abbitt, a senior at Appomattox High School, was awarded a pin at the school assembly on Tuesday, for attaining the highest grade in the Appomattox High School in the National Betty Crocker Homemaking Scholarship Test. This test was given in high schools throughout the United States. Miss Abbitt, daughter of Congressman and Mrs. Watkins M. Abbitt, plans to enter Westhampton College of the University of Richmond this fall.

Thanks to Mr. D. S. Arrington, of Pamplin, who brought Father Darkleaf and I a jar of home-made sorghum molasses . . my, when did I ever have any sorghum! I am sure not since I was a child . . we used to like it with fried ham, gravy and hot biscuits.

Miss Jane Hanner Stanley has the chicken pox.

All parents who have children to enter school next fall, are asked to send their names, to the principal of the school they plan to attend. The child has to be six years old by September 30.

Congratulations to the following boys who received trophies at the annual Lions Club football banquet last Thursday night: Tommy O'Brien, best linesman; Dan Coleman, best blocker; J. T. Paulotte, best sportsman, and Bradley Babcock, best back. The trophies were donated by the Lions Club, Times-Virginian, A. H. S., and the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Don't forget that tonight is the Mothers March on Polio. Don't forget to leave your porch light on to signify a donation to the March of Dimes.

If you like wrestling, here is your chance to see a good show . . Another of the nation's top women wrestlers will make her debut in Lynchburg Saturday night at City Armory, when matchmaker Jim Crockett puts on what he believes is the best card Lynchburg has had in several years. Making their first appearance will be Therese Theis, a Minnesotan who gained her first instruction wrestling from none other than Bronko Nagurski, former Minnesota football great, and later a professional grappler. Miss Theis will go against Bonnie Watson, a lithe, slender West Virginian, who made a big hit in her first Lynchburg appearance. Ray Stevens anpd Corsica Joe meet a pair of local favorites, Danno O'Shocker and Marco Polo in the Australian tag team match. And there is a good opening one fall match.

SPECIAL MOVIE AT LOCAL CHURCH

As part of the program for the period of emphasis on World Missions, at the evening service of the Appomattox Court House Presbyterian Church a sound movie, "With One Accord," will be shown. This features the work of the Southern Presbyterian Church in several of its mission fields.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Waller plan to move to the Evans farm in the very near future.

Recent visitors in the home of Vernie Jones were Mr. and Mrs. Victor Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Jones, Clarence Jones, and Gail Robinson.

INSECTS INFLUENCE HOUSE FURNISHINGS

Insects have had a lot to do with houses and furnishings, says John M. Amos, associate entomologist at VPI.

He says we might still be sleeping on the floor, as early man did, had it not been for the insects and rodents that used the same floor for a runway. The prevalence of insects in the afficent East led to the use of canopies, baldachins and mosquito netting. Beds grew heavy and ornate. From tops or testers attached to posters or ceiling, beds were draped in heavy folds to keep out the dreaded night air — the "bad air" from which malaria got its name. With the discovery of the transmission of malaria and yellow fever by mosquitos, the draping of mosquito netting over beds became more neeccsary than ever before.

Advertisements of the fire' iron beds recommended them as free of insects that sometimes infested the wooden bedsteads. The bed legs were often placed in cups filled with kerosene that kept bed bugs from attacking the sleepers. As we have learned to control these pests, beds have become less complicated, often without a head or footboard.

The hair mattress and feather bed are gone largely because they once invited moth and carpet beetle attack.

The portieres that hung in Grandmother's house, between the "front parlor" and "back parlor," were made of strings of beads, strips of tapestry, or of pressed roseleaf beads, and discouraged the passage of flies and other insects. They are still used in many tropical countries.

A hundred years ago, kitchen and dining table legs were often placed in cups filled with kerosene and wrapped with tape impregnated with arsenic to keep ants off the table. A cloth spread over a table that had been set kept flies off until meal time. On southern plantations little colored boys "minded" the flies. But other inventions replaced such customs, and dining room and kitchen ceilings boasted dangling strips of sticky fly paper, augmented by sheets of paper in the windows. The kitchen "safe" with its perforated metal doors, was intended to protect food from insects and rodents.

Today there seems to be a trend away from wall-to-wall carpeting, largely because carpeting tacked down around the edges is too hard to clean and makes a protected haven for fabric pests.

Moths liked the edible black horsehair upholstery of Abraham Lincoln's time, and the later mohair, woolen and other animal fabrics commonly used in upholsteries and draperies. The swing now is to cotton or new synthetic fabrics which are not attractive to such pests.

In the tropics, mtal furniture is replacing wood furniture — especially in offices — because of its freedom from termite attack.

Modern, simple-lined furniture is easier to keep clean, and therefore easier to keep free of insects.

TO EXPERIMENT ON AGRICULTURAL CHEMICALS

New York- Union Carbide and Carbon Corporation has exercised an option to purchase a 142-acre farm near Raleigh, North Carolina, which will be used for experimental work on agricultural chemicals.

According to Dr. G. H. Law, President - Research of Co and Carbon Chemicals Compa Division of the Corporation, farm will be used immediate test Carbide's newest Crag synthetic pesticides - weed fungicides, and insecticides.

"We believe that we can g proved pesticides in the hands faster by the more ext testing that will be possible o farm," Dr. Law said.

"At present it takes as lon seven years from the time the oratory produces a chemical time it is actually marketed.

"Now that we have a farm expect to cut this in some stances to five years," he sa

The tract purchased lies 17 southeast of Raleigh.

"Carbide's experimental fa flects the increased need by fa for pesticides," Dr. Law said.

FARM NEWS

By J. A. Smith, County Agent

Milk Production Sets Record

Dairy cows in the United States produced 15 per cent more milk in December, 1956, than the average amount produced for that month from 1945-54. Production increased 6 per cent from November—more than the expected 4 per cent.

Dr. W. S. Griffith, assistant dairy specialist at VPI, says in Virginia total milk production for December was 161,000,000 pounds, about the same as in the proceding month.

However, it was an increase of 17,000,000 pounds over the production one year ago, and 27,000,000 pounds more than the average for December 1945-54.

Total milk production for 1956 in the United States was 126,952,000,000 pounds or 3 per cent more than in the preceding year.

Wisconsin continues to be the number one dairy state, with a December production of 1,305,000,000 pounds. The next ranking states and their production are: Minnesota, 764,000,000 pounds; California, 557,000,000 pounds; Pennsylvania, 489,000,000 pounds; and Iowa 464,000,000 pounds.

Jobs For Grape Growers

Pruning of dead or diseased canes and knotty insect-infested wood will do much to improve the vigor of grape vines and reduce insect and disease troubles.

All pruned wood, dried up berries, dead leaves, and rubbish should be collected and burned to reduce trouble next season. Sanitation will help, and a dormant spray of lime-sulphur will kill fungus spores that may affect the crop.

If many scale insects are present, a spray of 3 per cent oil emulsion or miscible oil will be effective on insects, but will not kill black rot disease spores. Spray when the temperature is about 40 degrees or higher before the buds begin growing.

If you plan to use an all-purpose home fruit spray several times during the growing season, the dormant spray can be omitted, except where scale infestation or black rot is severe.

Notes From the County Agent's Desk

Dairymen in early February, will receive questionnaires from the Dairy Marketing Specialist—dairymen are urged to complete them upon receipt — Saw where a Washington County farmer won the "Returns per Ewe" Contest — seems he had 31 ewes with an average return of $46.38, a total of $1,418 from his flock in 1956 — sheep production is applicable to Appomattox farmers — two farms have added sheep in recent months — W. E. Inge, LeGrand Webb,H. B. Scruggs, John Cole, and Herbert Pulliam attended the State Dairymen's meeting in Roanoke last week. Other dairymen should plan to attend this meeting next year. — A new type infrared lamp is now on the market — shaped like an ordinary lamp rather than the standard R-40 infrared lamp — contains varopized aluminum reflector — advantage is that it's cheaper — provides a different heat pattern, eliminating the hot spot — gives a wider spread of heat. May be placed as close as 12" to litter.

County Poultry Committee Meets

The County Poultry Committee, C. F. Moore, Chairman; Elon Johnson, Secretary; Raymond Jamerson and T. M. Trent, met Tuesday evening to consider problems and goals for poultry work in the county in 1957.

Outlook predictions are that there will be plenty of poultry and poultry products available during the current year.

Commercial egg flocks over 400 birds represent more than one-half the eggs sold in 1954 compared with 1-3 in 1950. Conclusion: laying flocks declined from 4.2 million in 1950 to 3.4 million in 1954. Production remained the same, though number of flocks was down 8%.

Units, will increase in size, while number of flocks will drop. Production remains up because of increased lay per hen, increase in flock size, efficient feed conversion.

Virginia could use three million more layers to provide statewide demand. 85% of eggs purchased are shipped into the state.

170,000 farms raised turkeys in 1954, 24,000 less than in 1949, however output per farm was larger. Virginia will produce 18% more in 1957 than in 1956.

A poultry school is planned for March where top men in the poultry field will discuss housing and equipment, health and sanitation, and ventilation problems.

A tour of some commercial establishments in nearby counties is planned in April.
